

Guidelines for the Submission of Articles

(1 October 2023)

Please observe the guidelines in this document. If you have any questions, please contact the editorial office (<JLT@phil.uni-goettingen.de>).

General Information

- Thematic focus of the journal: The Journal of Literary Theory publishes articles that focus on theoretical and methodological issues. This includes articles on questions of literary theory, on the methodology of literary studies and the study of literary texts, and on the history of literary studies as a discipline. Articles in which an established literary theory is merely applied to a given text or corpus of texts (e.g. case studies) cannot be considered for publication.
- Submission deadlines: The submission deadlines for articles intended for the thematic focus of an issue are 15 July (issue 1 of the volume) and 15 January (issue 2 of the volume). Articles not intended for a thematic focus can be submitted anytime.
- Anonymisation: Please submit an anonymised text: delete your name from the text, use ›Author‹ in references and footnotes, instead of your name, the article title, etc., and do not include information indicative of the author, e.g. acknowledgements.
- Review process: Article submissions will be reviewed anonymously by two members of the advisory board (double blind peer review). On the basis of the reviews, the editors will decide on whether or not the article can be accepted for publication. The review process will take six weeks at least. In case the article is accepted only on condition of a revision, authors will be given four weeks to revise the article. Prior to printing, the contributors will receive a galley of their article for proofreading. As a rule, only errors that have occurred in the process of setting the article can be corrected at this stage.
- Copyright: If and when the article is accepted for publication, the Copyright Transfer Agreement of the publisher is effective.¹ You will receive a hard copy of the issue your article appears in and have access to a digitalized version of your article via De Gruyter.

Formatting

- Language: Please indicate whether the article has been written in British English or American English.
- Abstract: Please submit an abstract of roughly 800 words along with your article.
- Keywords: Please include about five keywords. The keywords should describe the theoretical or methodological substance of the article.

- Formatting should be kept to a minimum in order to facilitate the layout process.
- File format: Please submit your article in a common file format (*.docx or *.rtf).
- Side edges of the page: 2.0 cm (at the bottom of the page), 2.5 cm (all others).
- Please do not use page headers or automatic hyphenation.

- Headings and subheadings: numbered Arabic, following this pattern: 1, 2, 3, etc. (no full stop), 2.1, 2.2, 3.1, etc. They are set flush left and highlighted in bold. Please use Title Capitalisation.

- Text body: 12pt Times New Roman, 1.5 line spacing, justification.
- Paragraphs: separated by a blank line, no additional spacing above or below, no indent in the first line.
- In order to emphasise words in the text, please use italics only. Emphasis is required for words and phrases in a foreign language (per se, par excellence, tout court, etc.) and for work titles. Please indicate the titles of journal articles etc. by using single quotation marks in the main text.
- Please use the automatic footnote management of your text-processing programme. Footnotes are labelled continuously using Arabic numerals. Footnote marks succeed punctuation marks. Please use as few footnotes as possible and avoid extensively long footnotes.
- Text in footnotes: 10pt Times New Roman, single line spacing, justification, no indent.
- The following quotation marks should be used for quotes: » «.²
- In order to emphasise concepts and for quotes within quotes, please use the corresponding single quotation marks: > <.³
- If a dash is required, it should look like this: – (Ctrl + -). Please do not use the mdash (—).
- If an apostrophe is required, it should look like this: ’ (neither: ´ nor: ' nor: ‘).

- All common abbreviations (e.g., etc., et al., ...) can be used.
- In the References section please use: ed./eds., Vol., et al. Please do not use >p.< for page numbers.
- Please make sure that the required special characters are used, e.g. in cases like Føllesdal, Mukařovský, Ricœur.

- Citation
 - References should be given in the main text body and not within footnotes. Please include the name of the author, the year of publication and the page numbers in parentheses, e.g. »quotation« (Greenblatt 1988, 1).
 - If immediately after this another quotation from the same source follows, please use >ibid.< and, if necessary, the different page number, e.g. (ibid.) or (ibid., 2).

² Easily inserted in Microsoft Word by pressing ALT and entering the number combination >0187< resp. >0171<.

³ ALT and >0155< resp. >0139<.

- If the quote goes beyond a single page, please use ›sq.<, e.g. (ibid., 2sq.).
 - Indirect quotations are marked with ›cf.<. In case the indirect quotation references more than two pages, please do not use ›sq.<, but provide the exact page numbers, e.g. (cf. Greenblatt 1988, 1–3).
 - Quotations that exceed four manuscript lines are indented (1.25 cm on the left) and do not require quotation marks. They are set in 10pt Times New Roman with single line spacing and justification. The source is indicated after the final punctuation mark in the same line.
 - Omissions are indicated by three dots in square brackets: [...]. Each change to the original text of the quote and every additional text is put in square brackets, too.
 - If two or more publications by the same author and from the same year of publication are cited, an additional small letter is used, starting with the first, e.g. (cf. Jakobson 1981a, 18sq.; Jakobson 1981b, 322sq.)
- List of References
 - Please give all referenced sources in a list at the end of your article.
 - Please do not include research literature in this list that has not been referenced in the text.
 - The heading for this section is: References
 - The items in the list are in alphabetical order.
 - Publications by the same author are listed in chronological order.
 - Please italicise only work titles and journal titles, all other information, including titles of articles, does not need to be specifically marked.
 - Please use title capitalisation.
 - Online publications are not listed separately; please indicate the date of last access.
 - For discographies, filmographies, etc., please create a separate list.
 - The names of up to three authors or editors of a publication are given. If there are more than three, only the first is mentioned along with ›et al.<.
 - When quoting journal articles, please do not only give the number of the volume, but also the number of the issue.
 - Please mind additions to places of publication, e.g. Cambridge, MA; Ithaca, NY.
- A sample list for your guidance can be found below (Appendix).

Submission

- Please submit your article to the editorial office (<JLT@phil.uni-goettingen.de>).
